PRICE SINGS SWAN SONG OF NEW ENGLAND

Col. Theodore H. Price of New York is singaround the circle in Texas. Col. Price is publisher of Commerce and Finance. He in widely known in the cotton world. He has been engaged in the cotton business for many

He grows his cotton on Manhattan Island. Many years ago he invented or had invented a mechanical cotton picker. There were millions in it on paper until the real test came in the field. It was a magnificent machine but it wouldn't pick.

Col. Price is friendly to the south. He has written much of and for the south and southern industry. But he has a New England viewpoint. In one of his speeches away down here in Texas he made use of these words:

"It is with some regret that I contemplate the efforts to establish factories in Texas.

It was the tongue of Col. Price but the voice of New England. New England regretted when cotton mills were first established in the Carolinas and Virginia. New England regretted when cotton nills were first established in Georgia and Alabama. New England regretted when the first cotton mill was established in Texas.

There is a reason for it. New England has piled up the greatest wealth per capita of all the taxes by turning southern cotton and wool into the finished products and selling these products on the bargain counters of the world.

The south produces in normal years sixty per cent of the cotton of the world and Texas this year produced 42 per cent of all the cotton grown on American soil. Less than two per cent of the cotten grown on Texas soil is consumed by the mills of Texas.

Why the long haul of raw materials to New England for manufacturing purposes and another long haul back to the southwest to sell the finished products to the garment wearers of the southwest? The potential wealth of cotton does not lie in the raw material. At best the producer of cotton receives in return for his labor only one-fourth of the real wealth of a bale of cotton.

All the manufacturing nations of the world are the wealthy nations. All the manufacturing states of America are the wealthy states. Why should Texas forever pay tribute to New England and Old England and the lesser European nations that buy American cotton and then ship back to Americans the finished product of foreign mills and cheap labor?

Why should Texas continue to furnish cheap cotton produced largely by women and children, to make nabobs of the factory lords of New England and the old world?

Why should Col. Price, an American, regret the efforts to establish factories in Texas? Why shouldn't Texas become the greatest of manufacturing states as well as the greatest of agricultural states?

IS IT?

Ten thousand Scotch shipyard boiler makers went on strike seven months ago. Just the other day the strike was settled after having cost $35,000,000 and kept seventy thousand persons out of employment seven months, as the row deprived sixty thousand dependent workers of their jobs. Is a winning strike a money maker?

VICTORY FOR THE COTTON CO-OPERATIVES

Cotton is selling from the wagons in many interior towns in Texas at 35 cents. Cotton has advanced fifteen dollars per bale in the month of November. Now the cotton co-operatives are in high feather.

English spinners have placed an order for one hundred thousand bales of cotton assembled at seaport with the sales office of the Farm Labor Union at Benham. Many farmers sold their entire crop because prices were good at the beginning of the selling season and this makes it difficult for the organization to get together 100,000 bales of cotton,

John T. Orr and his fellow co-operatives have made a killing this year. They signed up thousands of farmers in Texas. The cotton of the co-operatives was warehoused. It was not rushed to market. Now the price has advanced to 35 cents and the co-operative farmer who signed up will take down the velvet.

Texas has produced a crop of 4,300,000 bales. If the farmers of certain sections had not rushed their cotton to the markets in August and September and October the Texas crop this year would have placed nearly a billion dollars in the pockets of the growers.

But why worry? It will go beyond $750,-000,000 at a conservative calculation.

FAMOUS Boctor R. V. Pierce, whose picture

appears above, was not only a success: ful physician but also a profound student of the medicinal qualities of Nature's remedies, roots and herbs, and by close observation of the methods used by the Indians. he discovered their great remedial qualities, especially for weaknesses of women, and after careful preparation succeeded in giving to the world a remedy which has been used by women with the best results for half a century. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is still in great demand, while many other so called "cure-alla" have come and gone. The reason for its phenomenal success is because of its abagilute parity, and Dr. Pierce's high standing as an honored citizen of Puffalo is a guarantee of all that is chaimed for the Favorite Prescription as a regulator for the ills prediar to women.

Is Your Account Appreciated or Tolerated?

There Was a Time When Only the Rich Could Obtain Credit

Today Your Credit Is Better Than That of the Old-Time Rich Man—If You Pay Promptly and He Doesn't

Credit is a convenience based upon confidence. Credit confidence is based upon facts. In the old days credit was granted only to those that were known to be worth considerable in property and money.

As modern merchandising methods were evolved the credit manager came into being. First he was the bookkeeper—he had facts. By degrees he began to exchange confidences with the bookkeeper across the street—and his firm increased its credit business upon additional facts.

Today the credit manager belongs to an association of credit managers. They have a bureau for the exchange of information. The granting of credit is almost an exact science.

Your honesty, your ability to pay and the promptness with which you DO pay is the credit manager's guide. No longer must you be rich to be entitled to credit.

As a result the "dead beat" has beat it. "Slow Pay" can not always buy what and where he pleases. "Prompt Pay" is king—rich or poor his credit is good. The credit man recommends him to his friends, the other credit men.

Just now the slow pay customer must speed up or his credit standing will suffer. Port Arthur merchants and professional men are going to eliminate him just as surely as they have eliminated the dead beat.

"Prompt pay," unless special arrangements are made at time of purchase, means payment in full for last month's purchases between the first and tenth of this month.

Pay Your Bills by 10th of Each Month and Your Credit Remains Good
